WELCOME TO THE WHISKEY LIBRARY

AT CARTON HOUSE A FAIRMONT MANAGED HOTEL

Here we have selected some of the finest whiskeys not alone from Ireland, but also from around the world.

So, take a seat and let our whiskey connoisseurs talk you through the history of our national spirit and one from around the world.

Our Irish whiskey collection in the library bar has been categorised and listed by style, allowing you choose the perfect dram to complement any occasion.

“The art of whiskey making is the act of cooperation between the blessing of nature and the wisdom of man.”

Masataka Taketsuru, Founder of Nikka Distillery

STYLES OF IRISH WHISKEY

Pot Still Irish whiskey

Barley - No less than 30% unmalted barley and up to, but not exceeding 5% of any other.

Cereal - It can be double or triple distilled in a pot still and if all the elements come from the same distillery, can be called Single Pot Still.

Malt Irish whiskey

A malt whiskey is made from 100% malted barley, double or triple distilled in a copper pot still. The malt can be peated or unpeated.

Like a single pot still if all the liquid comes from a single distillery, it can be called a Single Malt.

Grain Irish whiskey

Grain whiskey is made in a continuous or column still. Usually made predominantly from maize or wheat.

Again, if all from the same distillery it can be called Single Grain.

Blended Irish whiskey

Blended Irish whiskey is simply a blend of two or more of the three previous styles. A blend can be from the same distillery or other distilleries.
